Russia May Wake Us Up
That Ugly Word "Dole"
Bad News That is Good

By Arthur Brisbane
NEWS from Spain takes you back to Henry the Eighth of England and his many wives. Henry refused him a divorce that particularly wanted and Henry seized the great wealth of the church and the religious orders in England, starting a new church, the Anglican, and persuading Charles the Fifth to protest Luther, to spite the Pope.

Spain's constitutional committee asks Parliament to expel all members of religious orders from Spain and seize their wealth. Increasing through the centuries, with gifts and agraria from the faithful, that wealth is great, sufficient to solve the financial problems of Spain. Largely in real estate, the property could not be taken out of Spain.

This news, combined with recent events in Mexico and Italy, may cause the church to consider as its principal enemy property other than real estate. Freedom from taxation and assessment makes land an ideal investment for all religions, but only in countries where property rights are respected. Spain's constitutional committee wishes a constitutional definition of Spain as "Democratic Republic." It is one thing to choose a definition, another to make it real.

Our energetic Russian friends, working and producing with nervous energy born of revolutionary enthusiasm everything from tractors in candy, sell gasoline in South America at 11 cents a gallon and lumber at $20 a thousand feet.

Our government might wake up and get rid of its antiquated Sherman Act nuisance, with its silly insistence on full competition. Russia has only ONE lumber, candy, sugar, gasoline, machinery or other concern, and it's always THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT.

With the aid of the Dutch-British Shell Co. taking the oil business away from our old-fashioned oil gentlemen here and some taking the foreign gasoline business, where shall we land? Must we wait, like little Miss Motticet, in her white petticoat, until the Russian spider sits down beside us, and us away from world markets?

Soft coal men want the federal government to control their business, making them a public utility, that government can, with railroads, may compel the public to pay a profitable price. And the coal men advance an ingenious idea. They would have the government buy their surplus or unprofitable coal mines and shut them down. A few stores, hotels, apartment houses, office buildings and even newspaper companies, make the same arrangement.

President Hoover wants to keep away from that ugly word "dole," and the public approves. The word is almost as disagreeable to the unemployed as it is to those that would be taxed to supply the dole money.

Rail, seven millions are idle, and the number will increase, and the industrial business conditions change, and there are a few more unemployed than "dole." One is "in" and the other is "out" in America, because it makes us soumpy.

If the government means to spend $10 a week, to help a mother feed three or five children, better give it to the mother direct. A million men that went to France can tell the President what part of the $10 the mother would get, after deducting "charity overhead."

And, anyhow, the Red Cross, asked to help the hungry children of miners, said distinctly that, feeling American children, it is not its business. That business is attending to "acts of God."

And you surely can't call "act of God," the speculating, reckless over-production and over-buying that brought on our depression. You may call it "war," but God did not start the war.

There's coming from the fashionable gambling resorts of France "bad news," that is good news. The gambling casinos are near bankruptcy, because American fools that usually enrich them are at home, worrying and the money that Russian nobles once squandered in every European gambling hell, is now being used to build tractors and planting co-operative farms, in Russia.

Dr. France, once senator from Maryland, says he will run for the presidential nomination against Hoover, will win, and promises not to try to lead the Republican party. That is getting off with the wrong foot. What the people want is some one that WILL lead. France's ring of catpaw, crawling round and wagging the top of a stoop vase, would lead nowhere, because the people had been cut off, in the American idea of leadership.

Munson Liner Runs Aground Off Brazil; German Boat Rescues All Aboard

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 8 (INS)—The Munson liner, Western World, carrying passengers and freight, was reported ashore and taking water rapidly off Ponta Del Rei, near Santos, Brazil, today.

The American ship, which was carrying a heavy cargo and a large crew, was in her home port at the waterline, according to dispatches reaching here. The liner carried 37 passengers.

A German steamer, the General Oetzel, reported by wireless that she was standing by the Western World and had taken off all passengers and the crew.

FOUNDED BY REAR
Heavy seas were pounding the American vessel, which was taking water over its bow.

The Western World, a vessel of 15,712 registered tons, was ashore during the night in a heavy storm while enroute from Santos, Brazil, to New York.

The first 3,000 tons of cargo were taken off by the General Oetzel, which was then sent to sea to continue its voyage.

Prisoner Held in Fall River Murder Implicates Another in Case

Fall River, Aug. 8—John B. "Frenchy" Cannel, 37, confessed today, police said, that he and Peter L. Vaillancourt murdered Mrs. Maria Ann Gauthier, 44, on June 16.

Cannel, who lives in Wade st., near the home of the victim, was arrested yesterday as a suspicious person.

Vaillancourt was charged with what has become known as the "strangled murder" a week ago. He died 10 and was held without bail for action of the grand jury.

Cannel confessed, police said, that he and Vaillancourt went to Mrs. Gauthier's home on June 16 with the idea of robbing her. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gauthier and talked with her some time, then seized her and strangled her with a new canvas.

They then placed her body between mattresses on a bed, took a small amount of money and fled. It was not until July 1, when reported as either a suicide or a murder, Cannel told many weeks.

William C. Cannel called State Detective James J. Ferris and Francis Cannel into the case that Vaillancourt was taken into custody.

Cannel's confession came at the end of a seven-hour grilling, after which he was arraigned in district court. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held without bail.

Labor Secretary Replies to the Alien Charges Made by Hoover Board

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Charges of tyrannic and unconstitutional practices in the deportation of aliens, laid at the door of the Wickham commission, today drew from Labor Secretary Dask the reply that abuses were being corrected.

Dask dissented, however, from some of the suggestions of the commission's 1919 report to President Hoover. He asserted that his experience in the practical problems of deportation.

The commission itself split over the charges of its report. Revision Opponents, Baltimore attorney, who were all but a brief preface to the 1919 report on "the enforcement of the deportation laws."

Opponents, however, in the examination of about 100,000 supposed aliens and deporting about 15,000 annually, officials employed methods that attacked of the invasion and often violated "the plainest dictates of humanity."

SEVERE INDICTMENT. "It is difficult," said, "if anywhere in the entire system of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence are government officials are similar unfettered rights of private property, we is the exercise of governmental power more often characterized by violations of fairness and decency."

Both Sen. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., and former Justice Edmund Macdonald of the Washington state Supreme Court, objected to these charges as a too severe indictment of the Department of Labor. The latter said flatly he did not believe the abuses were as wide as the indictment.

"The limited number of cases in which Mr. Oppenheimer resented," Dask said today, "cover a period prior to my becoming Secretary of Labor. They have been made to correct administrative errors, and Mr. Oppenheimer generally acknowledges that the defect he finds do not now apply to the department."

He charged that immigration inspectors in a series of recent raids upon various sorts of meetings had held large groups of people without warrant, and that it was but a "short step from there to the breaking up of any government official may not approve."

Further he condemned the practice of the Labor Department's deportation board of review, which he asserted it could not do through any effort "properly fulfill its functions."

"It is believed," Oppenheimer said, "that members also in legal process of so important a nature is there the deplorable combination of all the elements of illegal procedure, absence of safeguards and dogmatic power which is to be found in the proceedings of deportation."

In a brief preface of the main report, the commission itself passed harshly over Oppenheimer's charges, saying that "happily his investigations had 'discovered' nothing worse than the kind of unfairness to the suspected deportees which occasionally months were and detained in the law become too odious as procedures to remain judicial as judges."

16 BUS RIDERS HURT IN CRASH

Valatie, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Sixteen passengers in a southbound Montreal-New York bus of the Champlain coach line were injured today in a crash on the Albany post road, near this village.

The top and one side of the bus were ripped off and the machine overturned after striking first a cherry tree and then a telegraph pole. Luggage was strewn in all directions. Screaming passengers were extricated from the wreckage by passing motorists and taken to the Hudson State Hospital and to residences nearby. Two of them were listed at the hospital as seriously hurt.

L. E. Barlow of Broadway, Providence, R. I., driver of the bus, said he had to turn sharply to the right to avoid an approaching machine. As he did so, he said, the wheels of the bus went off the soft shoulder of the road.

100,000 TO SEE CHRISTENING OF AKRON

Mrs. Hoover, by Releasing Pigeons, Will Launch Great-est of All Aircraft

Akron, O., Aug. 8 (AP)—The people of this city and many thousands of visitors joined in the launching and christening of the world's largest airship, the Akron.

The new dirigible, as long as several city blocks, and as high as a 15-story building, was to be christened this afternoon by Mrs. Hoover, wife of the President. At the same time, it was to be freed from its cradle and floated about 40 feet along the interior of the giant hangar.

The ship had hovered during the two years it has been under construction.

100,000 ON HAND A crowd of 100,000 persons was expected by officials to attend the christening. The program, similar to the launching and christening of the battleship, was to be held at 3 p. m., Eastern daylight time.

Not since the Montgolfier brothers at Annonay, France, in 1783, sent up their 35-foot paper balloon, was the launching of a lighter-than-air craft created so much attention as has the launching and christening of the $200,000-cubic-foot, helium-filled "Akron."

This huge ship, built by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corp. for the navy, is the product of years of accumulation of knowledge of Zeppelin construction. It is a marvel of aeronautical engineering, accomplished under the direction of the German Zeppelin builder, Dr. Karl Arnstein.

IRIGIBLES PLANNED Mrs. Hoover will pull a cord to release a flock of homing pigeons posted in a hatch in the nose of the dirigible. A 100-piece band will play the "Star Spangled Banner," while 500 voices sing.

Speakers beside Mrs. Hoover include Paul W. Leitchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corp.; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics; and David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics.

The Akron is the first of a pair of dirigibles ordered for construction here by the navy. Officials anticipated authorization for the start of construction of the sister ship within six weeks.

SUIT STIRS HOLLYWOOD

Marlene Dietrich, queen of pulchritude and film favorite, was too realistic in her "other woman" roles, according to suits totaling $600,000, on file against her in Los Angeles today. Frau Von Sternberg, ex-wife of Marlene's director, Josef Von Sternberg, was the complainant. "My husband bought her clothes, and furnished her apartment," she said. Here's Marlene with her daughter, Maria, four, and her husband, Rudolph Sieber, also a director, shortly after he arrived in Hollywood from Germany.

RAIDED BOOZIES APPEAL FINES

One man was given a six months' jail sentence for maintaining a gambling nuisance and five others fined $50 each for being present where gambling implements were found on their arrangement in municipal court today after a raid on an alleged bookmaking establishment in the North End last night. All appealed.

Louis Cohen of the South End, the alleged keeper, received the jail sentence. The other five men were Jacob Goldstein, Joseph Miller and Albert Stein, all of North End; Eli Schwartz of North End; and Wm. Zoff, and Frank Meny of High st., Charlestown.

The raiders invaded a building in North Market st., said to be the headquarters of the largest bookmaking ring in the city.

The establishment was located in a partitioned section of a printing shop run by Meny.

FIGHT BLOOD TO FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Marlene, Screen Star, Branded as 'Love Thief' in Suit

$600,000 ASKED BY EX-WIFE OF DIRECTOR

Frau von Sternberg Charges
That Husband Bought
Clothes for Beauty

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (US)—Marlene Dietrich, German film beauty, who has played the "other woman" in many screen dramas, has been accused of portraying the same role in real life by the ex-wife of Josef von Sternberg, her director and sponsor.

This was revealed in a night session of the domestic relations court held after regular court hours.

SECRET FAILS
The German star's name was carefully withheld from the court records for more than an hour, but in vain, for shortly before the session came in an end. Mrs. Rita von Sternberg's attorneys presented in evidence one of two damage suits, secretly filed in New York, against Miss Dietrich.

Then von Sternberg took the stand and admitted that it was Marlene Dietrich who was the defendant in these heretofore concealed cases—on for alienation of affections and the other for libel, allegedly against the former Mrs. von Sternberg.

The two damage suits, it was revealed, demand $500,000 of Miss Dietrich under the allegation of affections action and another $100,000 under the damage case.

ALIMONY PRIZES
The local hearing did not prelate in these two New York cases, but was an attempt of Mrs. Sternberg's lawyer to have the court administrator "legal shakedown" the director for delaying alimony payments.

Mrs. von Sternberg claimed her husband refused to pay the delayed alimony, and she was forced to sue against the German actress.

This alimony, slightly more than $10,000, has since been paid but the husband demanded a contempt hearing in New York.

In the suit, Mrs. von Sternberg charged Miss Dietrich with: Saying von Sternberg was going to divorce her; that she had neglected her marital obligations and fomented a move to boycott Miss Dietrich in this country.

"She also charged clothing to alimony and he furnished an apartment for her," Mrs. von Sternberg testified. "And he would never let me charge clothing to his accounts."

CHARGE ABSURD
The director characterized the charges as "absurd."

The director was served with the summons in the two cases as he stepped from the steamship Bremen after a recent voyage, he testified. "I heard of it two hours later when she telephoned me."

"Miss Dietrich's husband knows all about it," he told reporters. "It's really absurd."

"I can't say anything until I speak to my attorney," said Miss Dietrich when informed of her part in the case.

Miss Dietrich's husband, Rudolf Sieber, German film director, and daughter, Maria, five, are with her here now.

Von Sternberg accompanied the actress and her daughter to the station in Los Angeles to meet Sieber on his recent arrival there. The group posed for photographers.

Dope Defense Fails
for Girl's Slayer

SHE COMES HOME TO WED
Miss Maidon Dalgligh of North Andover, a student at London University, returned on the liner Baltic to be the bride of Irving G. Humphreys.

LINER BRINGS BRIDE-TO-BE

Judge David T. O'Connell of the Superior court and his brother, former Congressman Joseph P. O'Connell, arrived today on the White Star liner Baltic after a sojourn in Ireland.

They were met by numerous friends at Commonwealth Pier where the Baltic landed 133 passengers before proceeding to New York with 355 more.

Arthur Henderson, Jr., son of the British foreign secretary, and Capt. J. Patrick Saul, who was navigator of the Southern Cross on his eastward flight over the Atlantic, were aboard the liner.

Another voyager was Maidon Dalgligh, a North Andover girl, who came from studies in London in order to marry Irving G. Humphreys of Andover next month. He met her on the pier.

Dr. Case describes physicians as large, prominent, rapier-like, resembling crocodiles in form and habits. The specimen discovered was part of a great animal about 25 feet long which lurked in the swamp during the Triassic period, some 30,000,000 years ago.

The funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. E. W. Sullivan, in Spring st., Somerville, and St. Catherine's Church, Summer st., Somerville.

Patrimonia McAllister, a World War veteran and a member of the police department for six years, died Wednesday in Somerville Hospital after an operation.

His fondness for the children on his beat, for whom he was a lavish provider of candy and ice cream, made him the most loved official figure in the district.

BOY TELLS HOW 3 DROWNED
Newport, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP)—Arthur Manchester, Jr., survivor of a yachting tragedy in which his mother, sister and sister's son drowned, returned to Newport early today aboard the tug Prudence.

Manchester, son of Arthur Manchester, senior partner of a Newport shipbuilding firm, was met by his father and his uncle, Harry Williams.

His mother, his sister, Laura, and Edith Ryan, drowned after a knockabout in which they were sailing to Bristol caplined during a squall. The boy grasped a life raft and was picked up by the tug about an hour after the accident.

"The squall struck us," he said, "and that was all. The boat was swamped and I was around for some time, looking for mother, Laura and Edith. The only thing that came to the surface was a life raft. I held on to it until the Prudence picked me up."

Remains of Gigantic Reptile of Triassic Age Is Unearthed

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—The museum of paleontology of the University of Michigan today announced discovery of the dorsal armor of a giant reptile of the Triassic age.

The discovery was made near Ann Arbor, Tex., by an expedition composed of Dr. E. C. Case, director of the museum of paleontology, W. M. Shuster, professor, and Theodore White, graduate student.

Dr. Case describes the armor as large, prominent, rapier-like, resembling crocodiles in form and habits. The specimen discovered was part of a great animal about 25 feet long which lurked in the swamp during the Triassic period, some 30,000,000 years ago.

20 ARREST IN GIRL'S DEATH

Charged with being an accessory before the fact in the death of Thomas Johnson, 20-year-old New Wood bookkeeper, John J. Concanon, 20, also of New Wood, surrendered to police of the West Boston station today.

Ronbury court he pleaded not guilty and was held in $3000 bail for the grand jury.

Concanon's arrest was the second in connection with the girl's death. Mrs. Beatrice Pannell, registered nurse and wife of Dr. John R. Pannell of Rosindale, having been identified, according to police, by Miss Johnson as the woman who performed illegal surgery.

In a dying statement, police said, the girl declared she was operated upon at the home of Mrs. Pannell on July 26. The girl died at New Wood Hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Pannell denied being implicated and was held in $10,000 bonds for a hearing on August 12.

ARE YOU GOING GROUSE SHOOTING IN THE SCOT-TISH HIGHLANDS?

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—I have received several letters since I wrote the "Edinburgh" Column, asking me why I did not speak about the Highlands.

The Highlands are so fashionable right now... made so by an influx of Mayfairites from all parts of the globe... New York included... who, from down on the Glorious Tenth, will be tramping the moors with the guns and shooting that little brown bird, the grouse, that a column on this lovely part of Scotland would not be amiss...

Fashionable New Yorkers have sailed... and are about to sail for Scotland. Among those just departed for the Highlands are Mr. Clarence H. Mackay and his bride, Anna Case, that songbird of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Guests of the Mackays

Also Mr. Charles H. Smith... Mr. John D. Ryan... Dr. Phillip van Ingen and Dr. James Russell.

These are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay for the Highland shooting season.

Mr. J. P. Morgan is over there and will be out tramping the heather early next Wednesday morning...

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Richards are already over there, and will be joined in the North by Mrs. Jules Glaser.

Among those who will be on the Scottish moors on the Twelfth are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Snell, who are going to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Murphy, of 11 E. 70th st.

The Goodness Livingstons, of 15th st., will be guests in Scotland of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott.

Between now and the middle of September, plenty of other New York Mayfairites coming and going from "the Continent" will be on the Highland moors also.

To be a guest in a real old Highland castle is a wonderful experience!

Skill o' the Pipes

Highland castles, one and all, are surrounded by thick stone walls... in 10 feet thickness... round-topped... in a wide range of... in take the form of a... of turrets and towers and battlements and dungeons!

Always the Highlanders (inf-which I am one) were a warlike, national, restless race... and to the mad skill of the pipers... fighters-to-the-death!

When you play in a Highland castle, you need thick tweed... "plus four," if you're a man... smartly cut coat and skirt, if you're a lady... and the thickest pair of breeches on your feet, with a pair of stout boots...

When you play in a Highland castle, you need thick tweed... "plus four," if you're a man... smartly cut coat and skirt, if you're a lady... and the thickest pair of breeches on your feet, with a pair of stout boots...

Little Jackets Sprague, Kent Much Worn Brides Today

By ANN ARDEN

WHILE SPRAGUE and KENT, in color with the skirt or frock are seen constantly wherever one goes.

THE CONTRAST costume picture is effective, and is recommended as an addition to a vacation or wedding wardrobe. The one piece dress in blue and white print, the skirt having groups of white to knee depth; short sleeves; and an attached scarf red and white, repeated in the belt and white belt.

The bride is attended by her sister, Mrs. Daniel K. Blomdell, 22, the former Elizabeth Sprague of Boston, as matron of honor; and by her sister, Mrs. Phineas Shaw Sprague (Mrs. Carnegie) of New York and Phineas's wife, as maid of honor. They are seated with the bridesmaids in a room at the hotel.

THE CRIBBAGE hat is of blue felt in the new boat shape, of broad brim, and is marked with feather trim. The adjustable brim slants up on left side, and dips over right eyebrow.

Harvard Graduate

Mr. White, who is the son of Mr. Alexander M. White, of the late Mr. White, of Oyster Bay, L. I., has his bride, Alexander M. White, Jr., as his best man.

There is no sister, simply and informally being the bridesmaid and the guests are to meet themselves.

The bridegroom was graduated this June with the class of '27 from Harvard and is a member of the A. D. Hasty Pudding and the Phi Kappa Psi.

Miss White, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Janney, of New York, the latter a sister of Mr. White's. The two little boys, both aged six, are to proceed the bride up the aisle, dressed in suits of white flannel.

Van Allen-Kent

The other Maine wedding today, the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent, of New York, to Mr. Van Allen-Kent, of New York, was celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Van Allen-Kent, of New York.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Allen-Kent, of New York, and is a sister of Mr. Van Allen-Kent, of New York.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Allen-Kent, of New York, and is a brother of Mr. Van Allen-Kent, of New York.

The ceremony is to be at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Van Allen-Kent, of New York.

Only the two families and their intimates will attend the ceremony.

Miss Bertha Palmer, daughter of the Potter Palmers of Chicago, and Mrs. Katherine McCormick, also of Chicago, will attend her as bridesmaids.

Miss Mollie, daughter of Mrs. Solomons, will be engaged to Miss Palmer's brother, Palmer St. is staying with them for some time, and Miss Mollie will be staying with them for some time.

The daughter of the Harry Hill Thompsons, of Boston, gave a dinner in honor of Miss Kent, and her fiancé on Thursday evening.

True to Type SINCERITY MAY RUIN COWARD'S NEW PLAY

By Gilbert Selles

PEOPLE WHO HAVEN'T MUCH moral energy are fond of saying that high purpose is fatal to a work of art and unfortunately they are right. The plight of a man like Noel Coward is even more desperate, for the moment he becomes sincere and tries to deal with genuine emotion, he loses his grip entirely. Next season four companies will be playing his "Private Lives," a play of pure delight, a delicately insinuous, in the scenes that the human beings in it are not animated by much human passion—and full of a wicked woman about men and women which is the mastering emotion of the play. At the same time, Coward's new play, "Post Mortem," is promised. It may go as a play; but reading it is a tragic bore. It has just been published by Doubleday, Doran.

GILBERT SELLES

Ruinous Sincerity

Coward is desperately sincere about the war, and it ruins him. It brings his wit and his intelligence down to the level of the under-graduate who has just lost his faith in established religion and thinks it is shocking to write "God" with a small "g," and to say that the devil is under estimated. "What's your particular devil?" one soldier asks another, and the answer is, "God, I think." The structure of the whole business is just a second before one dies. Then, in 1930, he comes back and finds that his mother is still suffering from the infidelities of the war, and then, in 1931, he comes back and finds that his mother is still suffering from the infidelities of the war, and then, in 1931, he comes back and finds that his mother is still suffering from the infidelities of the war.

A Glimpse of the Future

John, in the front line in 1917, thinks that some good must come out of the suffering of the war and has a feeling that he might see the whole business just as it is. Then, in 1930, he comes back and finds that his mother is still suffering from the infidelities of the war, and then, in 1931, he comes back and finds that his mother is still suffering from the infidelities of the war.

What's wrong with this series of pictures is that no one's intelligence can take the idealism of the war seriously, and to hold up the promise of a "new moral order" against the mean and trivial reality doesn't mean anything except that human beings are all-too-human, which is a very good thing.

The other day a path by a glacier I met a party of three, two young men and a girl. The girl was the most prodigious. She was dressed as a man, as an explorer, in a tight breeches, in a lighter coat, beautifully but fantastically tailored; and her hair was cut in a short, theatrical-decorative waves round a face painted as if she were going to walk on the stage to play the part of a desperate and depraved villain.

The young man, who was as exquisite as abnormal. They were in the advertisements in magazines of country estates for rent or sale. The word "farm" sends a thrill up my spine. I read every line of description with interest, and wonder if the day will ever come when I get me such a place for my very own.

There is no literature comparable to these advertisements of country estates for modern means. And have you noticed how they are increasing? They are literally everywhere, like the advertisements in magazines of country estates for rent or sale. The word "farm" sends a thrill up my spine. I read every line of description with interest, and wonder if the day will ever come when I get me such a place for my very own.

Just Humans

By Rebecca West

THE OTHER DAY I WAS talking about how the Spanish, the French, the English and Americans have not a trace of what one was taught in one's youth to consider their rigid and unalterable characteristics. I left out the most obvious examples, the Germans.

It was brought up in connection with the German as a case of a patient and industrious people, and here in this Swiss valley, where I am putting in some weeks, I can see that it is what they are.

There are not so many German tourists as there have been in other years. Some are bent at home by actual lack of funds, or by the strange and powerful feeling that is haunting over Europe. But there are enough of them, here, to make a chorus of Majestats, let Wunderbar! Herrlich! when the mountain railway takes a turn, and the whole sky is mastered by the sleeping monk with snow on his head.

And the older ones look just the decent, sensible, hard-working bodies one used to be told that all Germans were. They move slowly and surely, as if they were not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

There is nothing of that sort about the young Germans. They look to me the most human, the most fantastic people in the world. They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment. They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment. They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment. They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment. They look like people who are not going to be knocked off their feet at any moment.

A Number of Things

By Charles Hanson Towner

IT IS FOOLISH for any of us to worry about the over-population of New York, Boston—or of any other great city. Problems like that adjust themselves.

Often, when I have seen a group of Italian laborers digging subways or shoveling dirt on sun-smitten highways, I have wondered why they left their olive groves and vineyards, blooming under a beautiful sky, to do this dull work here. Boys and girls will continue to leave the farm to live with millions of others in our teeming world, but little is written or said about the innumerable others who, having come to a metropolis and tested it, have gone back to the countryside.

And when most people travel, they go to the city. Charles H. Towner, long more than they long for time and riches, for a foot of earth somewhere instead of a stretch of coastline. You would be surprised if any of us could see nothing but an endless stretch of buildings, hungry for a glimpse of the sea or the mountains.

I want to see a busy executive in a sky scraper the other afternoon. His secretary ushered me into his private office, a little prematurely. I discovered this harassed man not bending over accounts and papers of one sort or another, but staring at a photograph upon his desk. When he looked up there was a guilty look on his face. Then, boy-like, he had to tell me his secret.

"This is a picture of a ranch I hope to own some day," he said. "It's in Oklahoma. Come over there," he cried wistfully.

And then he turned to the window, from which we could see nothing but an endless stretch of rooftops and tall granite towers looming against a rainy sky.

"Whenever I get nervous and exhausted I put this photograph out and feed my soul on it. It's like that hynostic Oriental post-spoil of you, know."

And if we could search in the pockets of men like this we would find some clipped from newspapers or magazines which dealt not with news but with clean, blowing meadows and open roads and star-jeweled skies. There is more sentiment in a place like New York than any of us realize. And as there is a great influx of youth, there is likewise a great exodus of middle age.

I confessed then, my business forgotten in a hazy dream, that my chief dissatisfaction was reading the advertisements in magazines of country estates for rent or sale. The word "farm" sends a thrill up my spine. I read every line of description with interest, and wonder if the day will ever come when I get me such a place for my very own.

There is no literature comparable to these advertisements of country estates for modern means. And have you noticed how they are increasing? They are literally everywhere, like the advertisements in magazines of country estates for rent or sale. The word "farm" sends a thrill up my spine. I read every line of description with interest, and wonder if the day will ever come when I get me such a place for my very own.

the Keith-Barton this week was unceremoniously cancelled and another act pushed in to fill his place after the matinee performance Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Casey ordered eliminations after he saw the act earlier in the week, and he says, "Bower apparently ignored me. When the complaints continued to come into his office, Mr. Casey saw the act again."

On Saturday afternoon and on Sunday, August 13, the Catholic Church in the city of Nantucket had a little garden party in aid of the Vacation House for Sickly Children at Sunset Point, Nantucket.

At the present moment, however, Alpert is in the city of Boston, the most popular orchestra leader in the country. He offers to appear with his band at the 1968-69 season at the Keith-Bonny or the Scollay Square.

They were both feeling pretty good about the whole thing. For one reason, the man suddenly took exception to the word "cliche." "Lass, wifren," said Alpert, "I don't want to be dangerously close to the cliche."

Today's News of Wall St. Price Changes Are Narrow in Very Dull Market

Attention of Wall St. was again centered on the railroad shares today in the belief they would in the next few days provide a clue to the next trend of the market. For a long time the general trend of the market has been forecast by the action of the rail. Some believe, on the other hand, that the industry is apt to break away from the rails and stage an independent movement.

Good Rally Could Be Staged by Drive

Many market observers believe a good rally could be staged by the overall industrial through a reaction of the short interest. Such a rally, some believe, could even bring about a comeback in the rail, even though it would not mean that the larger bears would prefer higher prices from the rail to sell short.

Grain Market Affords an Example

That can be accomplished when the bears get overloaded with commitments. The "corner" in July corn was first striking itself in the market, and then the market itself, extending to most of the grain markets, also showed what might be accomplished by a vigorous constructive interest.

General Motors Is Held Steady

General Motors held steady today. The monthly sales report of General Motors, issued at the close of the month, again was being looked over. The report of General Motors as to customers for the month, at 80th, showed an actual gain over July of last year.

Marked in Rail Shares General

In the rail today, Attention held a point, and New York Central declined, while the rest of the group was steady. Union Pacific lost so much, and declines of a point or so appeared in Southern, Pacific, New Haven, Great Northern, Western, and Washburn.

American Can Short Interest Large

American Can probably harbors one of the most extensive short interest in the market. Originally, it was the target for selling by powerful bears, who probably aimed liquidation was the end of the line for the company.

Montgomery Ward Is Likely to Lead

Any upturn in the general list is almost certain to find Montgomery Ward among the leaders, since the stock of that company has been the most aggressive bull market during periods of strength.

Lower Copper Price Is Thought Likely

Official sources are saying today that the price of copper is likely to be lower than expected. Wire today from J. P. Maher, a well known copper market analyst to the financial editor of the Boston Herald, says:

Steel Tonnage Report Monday

Tonnage statement for the month of July, U. S. Steel Corporation will be published at noon, Monday. Preliminary forecasts indicate little change has taken place in the volume of steel during the end of June. Some authorities are hoping for a small increase despite the low operating rate of the entire industry during the last few months.

National City Bank Cites Selling Methods

New York, Aug. 8.—The National City Bank of New York, in analyzing the steel selling methods of the country, has issued a pamphlet, "The National City Bank's Selling Methods," which is being distributed to its members.

Advice Is Free

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to get the advice of a professional investment adviser. Send your investment inquiry to Frank H. Bond, Investment Adviser, 100 South Street, Boston, Mass. 02109. He will give you free advice.
